kills, not necessarily suddenly, but SURELY. It preys upon the intellectual powers more than we realize. It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. Headache and pain should be premptly removed-but properly. Many pain cures are more harmful than the pain. Beware. If you would be safe, take

Miles Pain Pills.

"As a result of neuralgia I lost the sight of my right eye, and the pain I have suffered is incomprehensible, being obliged to take opiates almost continually. A friend gave me one of Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and it promptly relieved me. I then purchased a box and now my trouble is gone. They have also cured my daughter of nervous headache, and I heartily recommend them to others."—W. J. Corley. Bremond, Texas.

BIG STEEL TRUST ENJOINED Stockholders Seek to Prevent

Transfer of Bonds. REPUBLIC SPECIAL

New York, June 1.- To prevent if possible the consummation of the plan arranged by the directors of the United States Steel the consummation of the plan arranged by the directors of the United States Steel Corporation to execute and deliver $200,000.000 of its bonds for the purchase and retirement, or the exchance of $330,000,000 of its preferred stock, C. H. Venner & Co., a New Jersey concern, and James Pollitz of this city, have begun an action in the Supreme Court. They seek to restrain the corporation from carrying out the plan and to prevent the placing of any lien or mortgage upon the properties or assets of the corporation to secure the payment of such bonds. George H. Yeaman is counsel for the plaintiffs.

C. H. Venner & Co. own 500 shares of common stock of the corporation and Pollitz owns 100 shares of the preferred stock. The plan is to issue, $250,000,000 of bonds for the purpose of raising an additional working capital to be used in the prosecution of its business and to exchange $250,000,000 obonds for the purpose of raising an additional working capital to be used in the prosecution of its business and to exchange $250,000,000 bonds for preferred stock. The result of this, it is asserted, is simply to rearrange the present capitalization of the corporation by increasing its bonded indebtedness to an amount of $200,000.000.

This, it is alleged, will increase the fixed charges of the corporation by application in paper the ability of the corporation to pay dividends. The complaining stockholders allege that the corporation to pay dividends. The complaining stockholders allege that the corporation to meeting of the stockholders was held to yote on the plan and that the ebject is to enable certain holders of preferred stock. The preferred stock to become secured creditors.

GROWTH OF ST. LOUIS CATHOLIC KNIGHTS ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore Comments Upon Enterprise and Stability of City.

ACTIVITY SHOWN IN ALL LINES. SPEECHES AT LEMP'S PARK

Wiggins Ferry Fight Referred to as an Evidence of the Value of Railway Terminals.

The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore. which ranks among the leading industrial journals of the world, comments upon the progress St. Louis is making in every churacter of municipal activity. While the impetus given by the approaching World's Fair is taken into account, the correspondent does not hold that this enterprise is alone at the bottom of the city's wonderful growth.

Beginning with the city Government, attention is called to the fact that only since Mayor Rolla Wells and his associates have been in office, have steps been taken to "stop boodling and overhaul the boodlers in public placer." The result of a good adpublic places. The result of a good an ministration is evident, says the correspondent, Albert Phenis, in the improvement of streets. St. Louis now has about 400 miles of asphalt, block and macadam pavements, and this is constantly being increased.

"Extraordinary development is apparent in raffroad building in the territory dominated by St. Louis," says the Record. "No less than 2000 miles of new lines are under construction in Missouri, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma and Texas, and in all this section new enterprises are not of infrequent amnouncement. The fight which has been waged on the Rock Island's attempt to secure possession of Wigglies Ferry demonstrates how important a hitherto neglected property has become in the estimation of the biggest magnates of the railroad world. St. Louis does not depend upon Eastern capital to finance its enterprises. It has capital to spare, as was evidenced by the recent fig.000,000 loan to the Mexican Central Railroad. The Tennessee Central is also indicated to this stay for the migrous which dinistration is evident, says the correspond capital to spare, as was evidenced by the recent $19,00,000 loan to the Mexican Central Rallroad. The Tennessee Central is also indebted to this city for the millions which have made that enterprise a success. In a general summary the Record says:

"It will give further insight to be told that the nineteen banks and ten trust companies of St. Louis have a capital and surplus of more than $50,000,000. While their deposits are almost $50,000,000. The bank clearings were nearly $2.271,000,000 in 1890, an increase of more than $580,000,000 over the figure of 1900.

"While in manufacturing St. Louis does not hold the lead she should and will, there is a very considerable manufacturing interest here, the value of products at the factories for 1901 being given at some $500,000,000 and wages paid out aggregate about $1.750,000 a week, or some $500,000,000 and year. The statement is made that coal is cheaper in St. Louis than in any other city of the first class, and Government indorsement of the claim is exhibited.

"In jobbing lines St. Louis holds a strong place, and is destined to further greatness. She is the third American city as a market for dry goods, ciothing and grozeries; the second largest aboe-distributing point and flour market, and first in millinery, drugs, hardwoods, fruits and horses and mules. She supplies the West and Southwest with much those sections consume and use, and she is even extending her sphere of usefulness by adding new lines and by penetrating new territory."

Jeantaud, one of the pioneers of automobilism in France. "If what I read about Mr. Edison's new battery be true it is a marvelous dis-covery and one which will make the electric covery and one which will make the electric carriage practical and economical.

was allowed a minute in which to give testimony.

Evangelist Hart's portion of the programme consisted of Bible reading. He said christians must yield and trust in God and obey him if they hope to gain substation. Christians must bear the responsibility of spreading the gospel and not rely upon the church to do it. Some people, he said, think that if they give a dollar or two to charify or go to church once in a while, they are saved, but they are deceiving themselves. They must give themselves to God, body and soul, or they are lost.

Evangelist Hart will remain at Tenth and North Market streets all this week, after which the tent will be removed to Baden.

GENERAL BOYNTON SAYS HE MADE NO MISTAKE.

Declares the Errors Concerning the Rough Riders' Part at San Juan Were Properly Expunged.

Washington, June 1.-"If I were to write over again the report which I submitted to the Board of Education February 29, 1901, concerning the inaccuracies which existed in histories which were in use in the District schools at that time, I would not change a single word," General H. V. Boyn-ton, chairman of the Board of Education, change a single word," General H. V. Boynton, chairman of the Board of Education, remarked last night when asked concerning a letter written to President Roosevelt by John B. Dalsh, in which the attention of the President is called to the fact that the school histories now used in the District schools do not contain the statement that the Roush Riders led the charge up San Juan Hill.

"My sole purpose in submitting that report was was to correct erroneous statements, and I had no thought of reflecting upon the valor of our President," General Boynton centinued. "I wish to be understood as saying that I stand upon that report and do not wish to alter it in the least. It has been made to appear that my report brought about a change in the statement in Montgomery's history concerning the battle of San Juan. The publishers made the change in the text before my report was submitted, I found out afterwards."

General Boynton referred in his report of February 39, 1901, to inaccuracies in Johnson's history of the United States, Mc. Master's school history of the United States and Montgomery's leading facts in United States history. The statement in the Montgomery history concerning the battle of San Juan, Roosevelt, at the head of the Rough Riders, led the assault, and they, with the gallant regulars (both black and white), joined by a part of the Seventy-first New York Volunteers, carried all before them.

The comment which General Boynton made upon this statement in his report was as follows:

"While there is no doubt of Colonel Roosevelt's reckless courage hefore Santiago, it would be difficult to write a more erroneous paragraph, as every one knows who has studied the details of the battle of San Juan."

NEW CURE FOR DIABETES.

Physician's Experiments With Infusion of Eucalyptus Leaves. London, June 1.-Almost as important as current political gossip is the announcement that a Glasgow physician, A. C. Faulds, has been able to cure fifteen cases of diabetes out of forty-six by using an in-fusion of dried eucalyptus leaves.

It is said that his experiments, which were prompted by his discovery that New Zealand natives used such an infusion, in-stead of the eucalyptus oil of commerce, will be repeated on a larger scale in the London hospitals. According to the Cyclopedia of Medicinand Surgery, edited by Doctors G. M. Gould and Walter L. Pyle, eucalyptus is made from the leaves of blue gum, native of Australia, but now cuitivated in California. It contains a volatile oil that yields camphor by distillation, and has an aromatic, bitter taste, 'romoting digestion. It is highly and the property of the contains of the contains and antimalarial, and is valuable.

tiseptic and antimalarial, and is valuable in dyspepsia and intermittent fever. It is also extremely astringent and valuable in the treatment of relaxed throat. The genus embraces many species of trees and shrubs, nearly all of which appear to have highly useful medicinal qualities. Eucalyptus honey, gathered by bees from the flowers of the species, is valued in Australian domestic practice as a cure for almost all catarrhal troubles. The railroads and street railway companies have anchored their bridges. There are fourteen bridges across the river in the city, and if one of them goes it will be disastrous to the others.

The rainfall here for the month ending last night was ten and one-half inches, a record unprecedented for May.

DEW BATHS THE LATEST FAD. Washington Young Women Seek Beauty in a New Way.

Washington, June 1.-The last diversion to ciaim the attention and zealous indorsement of the ultra-fashionable is the dew bath. It's a popular and wholly unconventional invention of some one, no one knows just who, and is being indulged in with all the vim and enthusiasm which has b death of fads since time immemorial. The dew bath was thought out and per-fected for heautifying purposes only and those to whom nature has been unkind have eagerly seized the opportunity presented become the peer of their more fortunate sisters in point of facial attractiveness. It consists in bathing the face and hands in the early morning dew. To accomplish this it is necessary to get up with the sun or even before, find a convenient grass plot and take the bath. The parks about the city, especially those in the vicinity of the fashionable section have been the scene of these early morning meetings ever since the beginning of April and more than one unsophisticated indi-vidual has been seen to stand, rub his eyes and look aghast at the spectacle of a dezer or more young women on their knees en gaged in taking the dew bath.

PERSIA AFTER TURKEY'S TRADE. America Buys More and More Rugs

From First-Named Country. REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, June 1.-The Bureau of Animal Industry has had occasion to look into the trade of rugs, and has made some in-the trade of rugs, and has made some in-teresting discoveries. The annual importa-tion of these rugs, the manufacture of which forms one of the most important features in the industry and commerce of the Ottoman Empire, exceeds $1.55,000, and includes about $2.000 pieces. Of late years, however, the demand for Turkish rugs has suffered a marked de-cline, while Persian rugs have advanced in popularity. cline, while Persian rugs have advanced in popularity.

It has been found that the decline in the demand for Turkish rugs is chiefly due to the marked inferiority of the wool now employed in the rug-weaving districts. The best wool comes from the frontier between Turkey and Persia, and, by some means, the Persians have gotten control of nearly all the wool produced in this region, which how goes to the Persian rug-weaving centers, very little of it finding its way westward. The Sultan is lending every encouragement to those who have in hand the construction of the Bagdad Hallway, in the hope that the new transportation facilities will change the current of this product and render it accessible to the weavers of Anatolia.

Thomas H. Norton, United States Consul

win change the current of this product and toils.

Thomas H. Norton, United States Consul at Harput, states that in addition to the foregoing, there are two other factors that are driving the trade out of Turkey and into Persia.

The first," he says, "is the more extended use in Turkey of the cheap and brilliant, but fugitive, aniline dyes. In Persia the less vivid, but rermanent, vegetable coloring matters retain their ancient vogue. Again, the artistic sense seems more highly developed in Persia, at least, there is more conformity to occidental canons of heauty as far as designs and color combinations are concerned. There is no doubt that these three factors are seriously affecting the demand for the products of Turkish looms."
